Customer Reviews

Let me start off by saying that I just recently got into the "Adult Coloring Book" scene and was very happy with this as one of my first books. I quickly learned however that the use of this book in certain places is not recommended. Im typically not a mean or angry person, but thought the idea of a few bad words and sayings being colored in was a good way to vent without actually saying them. I got my book, busted out my pencils and began to color away some frustrations. I began with the simple word "dumba$$" as I liked the way it appeared with the flowers and animals with it. After about 3 minutes, I immediately remembered that I could not color to save my life and began to get upset. Constantly outside the lines, I attempted to "fade" or "Blend" the colors together, but it ended up looking like a raccoon ate a box of crayons and took a dump of my paper. I tried endless ways, including going on Google for tips. I became extremely upset and angry and started swearing obscenities at myself getting louder and louder as I stabbed the paper with my swords of colored vengeance in an attempt to make the picture look less like a Fraggles Rock colored murder scene. I found that no matter what I tried nothing worked, much like a teenager trying to get rid of acne the day before picture day. Everything just got worse and I was getting more upset very quickly. At this point, the librarian came up to me and asked me to be quiet, as I was disturbing the children storytime that was being read 10 feet away. I attempted to gather myself, but before I could, one of the little turds walked over and asked why my paper had color in all the wrong places. I screamed, and lost it.
