The New Yorker Book Of All-New Cat Cartoons (New Yorker Series)

Synopsis

Cats again? You can never have too many . . . Drawn from the hundreds of cartoons published in The New Yorker in the seven years since The New Yorker Book of Cat Cartoons--as well as from fabulous older cats--this new collection is as hilarious and irresistible as the first. The cartoons provide a cat's-eye view of the world and the important things in life: food, sleep, love and affection, adventure, food, good friends and doggy enemies, back rubs, and food. We see the essence of the feline world captured with verve, humor, and warmth by classic New Yorker artists such as Ed Koren, George Booth, William Steig, Saul Steinberg, Lee Lorenz, Robert Mankoff, Mick Stevens, Danny Shanahan, and Bruce Eric Kaplan. Purrfectly divine!

Cat lovers will treasure this book! The New Yorker's staff has created a second volume of cat cartoons by adding more recent cat cartoons since the first book came out as well as some older cartoons. As before, the 86 pages bristle with humor about our relationships to cats, a cat's eye on our world, and the usual switching of cats and people into each other's roles. To my taste, over half of the cartoons were outstanding, and all were good. Here are some of my favorites. Man visiting bare-chested yogi on a ledge outside a cave entrance is surrounded by cats. "The meaning of life is cats." Sam Gross; Wall of books with signs about them "Travel, Science, History, Fiction, Cute Cats." A well-dressed man is standing in front of Cute Cats holding a book with an illustration of a cat. Sidney Harris; "Dog Days" is the caption for a subway car filled with dogs looking hot, with their tongues hanging out, wearing disheveled suits. A lone cat in the middle is neatly dressed and is definitely the cool cat of the illustration. William Hamilton; Cat executive sits behind a large desk that covers an aquarium filled with very large fish. Bernard Sshoenbaum; Cat speaks to a bird in a tree. "Hey, let's do lunch." Robert Mankoff; Man and woman in a restaurant find themselves staring at a cat in the middle of their small table for two. The waiter explains "We're out of flowers." Danny Shanahan; Four panels of a man and woman. In the third panel, a cat walks through and both stop to beam happily at the cat. Joseph Farris; Cat with a television playing in the background is outside of a mousehole. "Jeopardy is on." Sam Gross; Lawyer has cat on shoulder and holds out an envelope to a dog.
